

7th Annual Online Global Citizen Leadership Certificate Course

Fundamentals of Global Citizen Leadership

October 22-December 10, 2018

REGISTER TODAY!

The Global Citizens' Initiative (TGCI) is pleased to announce that we will be offering our 7th annual online Global Citizen Leadership Training Course Fundamental of Global Citizen Leadership between October 22 and December 10, 2018. The course content is tailored for entry and mid-level international development professions working for NGOs, government entities, businesses, or international organizations. Teachers and students in global development and related studies also are encouraged to apply.

The course will build your capacity to address development challenges within and across countries. We cover topics such as human rights, gender equity, the environment, poverty and income inequality, and global peace and justice. Our course is unique in that it provides you with an opportunity to directly learn from and work with colleagues from different countries, and study with expert development professional mentors. The course requires 2-4 hours per week of work.

It is our seventh year of running the leadership course, and to date we have graduates from more than 20 countries. Our faculty is a team of outstanding TGCI international development experts and practitioners. A full course description and a registration are now posted on TGCI's website. You can also access course information directly on our course page and the registration form here.

Please do not hesitate to send any questions to:
L. Michelle Vital, PhD
TGCI Senior Instructional Advisor and Course Coordinator
michelle@gcitizen.org

